

1 ANNA ERICKSON WHITE (CA SBN 161385)
2 AWhite@mofo.com
3 ROBERT L. CORTEZ WEBB (CA SBN 274742)
4 RWebb@mofo.com
5 SU-HAN WANG (CA SBN 284863)
6 SWang@mofo.com
MORRISON & FOERSTER LLP
425 Market Street
San Francisco, California 94105-2482
Telephone: 415.268.7000
Facsimile: 415.268.7522

7 Attorneys for Defendants
8 Sunrun Inc., Lynn Jurich, Bob Komin, Edward Fenster, Jameson
McJunkin, Gerald Risk, Steve Vassallo, Richard Wong

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
NORTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA
SAN FRANCISCO DIVISION

13 GEORGE COHEN, DAVID MOSS, and
14 ROXANNE XENAKIS, Individually and on Behalf of All Others Similarly Situated,

Plaintiffs,

11

18 SUNRUN INC., LYNN JURICH, BOB KOMIN,
19 EDWARD FENSTER, JAMESON MCJUNKIN,
20 GERALD RISK, STEVE VASSALLO,
21 RICHARD WONG, CREDIT SUISSE
22 SECURITIES (USA) LLC, GOLDMAN, SACHS
& CO., MORGAN STANLEY & CO. LLC,
MERRILL LYNCH, PIERCE, FENNER &
SMITH INCORPORATED, RBC CAPITAL
MARKETS, LLC, KEYBANC CAPITAL
MARKETS INC., and SUNTRUST ROBINSON
HUMPHREY, INC..

Defendants.

Case No. 3:16-CV-02570-WHA

CLASS ACTION

SUNRUN DEFENDANTS'
MEMORANDUM IN OPPOSITION TO PLAINTIFF'S MOTION FOR REMAND

Date: August 11, 2016
Time: 8:00 a.m.
Ctrm: 8, 19 th Floor
Judge: Hon. William Alsup

TABLE OF CONTENTS

2	TABLE OF AUTHORITIES	ii
3	SUMMARY OF ARGUMENT	vi
4	STATEMENT OF ISSUE TO BE DECIDED.....	1
5	BACKGROUND OF THIS ACTION	1
6	STATUTORY BACKGROUND.....	1
7	ARGUMENT	3
8	I. ONLY FEDERAL COURTS HAVE JURISDICTION TO HEAR THIS PURPORTED CLASS ACTION.....	3
9	A. SLUSA’s Exclusive Jurisdiction Amendment Strips State Courts of Jurisdiction over “Covered Class Actions” Arising Under the Securities Act.....	3
10	B. Plaintiff Can Offer No Other Plausible Interpretation of SLUSA’s Exclusive Jurisdiction Amendment.....	5
11	C. Courts Cannot Interpret Federal Statutes to Negate Their Own Stated Purposes, as Remand Would Do Here.....	7
12	II. BECAUSE STATE COURTS LACK JURISDICTION OVER COVERED CLASS ACTIONS ASSERTING SECURITIES ACT CLAIMS, THE REMOVAL BAR DOES NOT APPLY.....	10
13	A. The Removal Bar Does Not Apply to Securities Act Covered Class Actions	10
14	B. Plaintiff’s Reliance on Kircher and Luther Is Misplaced.....	10
15	III. COURTS THAT REMAND BASED ON UNCERTAINTY HAVE IT EXACTLY BACKWARDS; ANY UNCERTAINTY PRECLUDES REMAND.....	12
16	IV. THE LACK OF CONTROLLING AUTHORITY WEIGHS IN FAVOR OF DENYING REMAND	13
17	CONCLUSION.....	14

TABLE OF AUTHORITIES

Page(s)
3	CASES
4	Alkow v. TXU Corp. , Nos. 3:02-CV-2738-K, 3:02-CV-2379-K, 2003 WL 21056750 (N.D. Tex. May 8, 2003) 5
5
6	Brady v. Kosmos Energy Ltd. , Nos. 3:12-cv-0373-B, 3:12-cv-0781-B, 2012 WL 6204247 (N.D. Tex. July 10, 2012) 5
7
8
9	Breuer v. Jim's Concrete of Brevard, Inc. , 538 U.S. 691 (2003) 12
10
11	Brody v. Homestore, Inc. , 240 F. Supp. 2d 1122 (C.D. Cal. 2003) 5, 7
12
13	Buelow v. Alibaba Grp. Holding Ltd. , No. 15-cv-0519-BLF, 2016 WL 234159 (N.D. Cal. Jan. 20, 2016) 7
14
15	Cal. Pub. Emps.' Ret. Sys. v. WorldCom, Inc. , 368 F.3d 86 (2d Cir. 2004) 10
16
17	Cervantes v. Dickerson , No. 15-cv-3825-PJH, 2015 WL 6163573 (N.D. Cal. Oct. 21, 2015) 7, 8, 13
18
19	Desmarais v. Johnson , Nos. C 13-03666 WHA, C 13-03668 WHA, 2013 WL 5735154 (N.D. Cal. Oct. 22, 2013) 7, 14
20
21	Elec. Workers Local #357 v. Clovis Oncology, Inc. , No. 16-cv-0933-EMC, --- F. Supp. 3d ---, 2016 WL 2592947 (N.D. Cal. May 5, 2016) 5, 12, 14
22
23	Gaus v. Miles, Inc. , 980 F.2d 564 (9th Cir. 1992) 12, 13
24
25	Haw. Structural Ironworkers Pension Tr. Fund v. Calpine Corp. , No. 03CV0714-BTM(JFS), 2003 WL 23509312 (S.D. Cal. Aug. 27, 2003) 5
26
27	Hung v. iDreamsky Tech. Ltd. , No. 15-CV-2514 (JPO), 2016 WL 299034 (S.D.N.Y. Jan. 25, 2016) 4, 6, 10
28
29	In re Fannie Mae 2008 Sec. Litig. , Nos. 08 Civ. 7831(PAC), 09 Civ. 1352(PAC), 2009 WL 4067266 (S.D.N.Y. Nov. 24, 2009) 4

1	In re King Pharm., Inc., 230 F.R.D. 503 (E.D. Tenn. 2004).....	4
2
3	In re Pac. Biosciences of Cal. Inc., No. CIV 509210, 2012 WL 1932469 (San Mateo Superior Ct. May 25, 2012).....	9
4
5	King v. Burwell, 135 S. Ct. 2480 (2015).....	viii, 7, 8, 9
6
7	Knox , 613 F. Supp. 2d at 423	9, 10
8
9	Kircher v. Putnam Funds Tr., 547 U.S. 633 (2006).....	11
10
11	Kulinski v. Am. Elec. Power Co., No. Civ. A.C-2-03-412, 2003 WL 24032299 (S.D. Ohio Sept. 19, 2003)	5
12
13	Lander v. Hartford Life & Annuity Ins. Co., 251 F.3d 101 (2d Cir. 2001).....	2
14
15	Lapin v. Facebook, Inc., No. C-12-3195 MMC, 2012 WL 3647409 (N.D. Cal. Aug. 23, 2012).....	4, 11
16
17	Libhart v. Santa Monica Dairy Co., 592 F.2d 1062 (9th Cir. 1979).....	12
18
19	Lowinger v. Johnston, No. :05CV316-H, 2005 WL 2592229 (W.D.N.C. Oct. 13, 2005)	5
20
21	Luther v. Countrywide Fin. Corp., No. CV-09-06162-MRP, 2009 WL 3271368 (C.D. Cal. Oct. 9, 2009)	11
22
23	Luther v. Countrywide Home Loans Servicing LP, 533 F.3d 1031 (9th Cir. 2008).....	passim
24
25	Madden v. Cowen & Co., 576 F.3d 957 (9th Cir. 2009).....	12
26
27	Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith Inc. v. Dabit, 547 U.S. 71 (2006).....	vi, 1, 2, 8
28
29	Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith Inc. v. Manning, 136 S. Ct. 1562 (2016)	14
30
31	Moore-Thomas v. Alaska Airlines, Inc., 553 F.3d 1241 (9th Cir. 2009).....	12
32
33	Niitsoo v. Alpha Nat. Res., Inc., 902 F. Supp. 2d 797 (S.D. W. Va. 2012)	5
34

1	Northumberland Cty. Ret. Sys. v. GMX Res., Inc., 810 F. Supp. 2d 1282 (W.D. Okla. 2011)	5, 7
2
3	Pinto v. Vonage Holdings Corp., No. 07-0062 (FLW), 2007 WL 1381746 (D.N.J. May 7, 2007)	4
4
5	Purowitz v. DreamWorks Animation SKG, Inc., No. CV 05-6090 MRP, 2005 WL 6794770 (C.D. Cal. Nov. 15, 2005)	5
6
7	Rajasekaran v. CytRx Corp., No. CV 14-3406-GHK, 2014 WL 4330787 (C.D. Cal. Aug. 21, 2014)	7
8
9	Reyes v. Zynga, No. 12-05065 JSW, 2013 WL 5529754 (N.D. Cal. Jan. 23, 2013)	7, 9
10
11	Rovner v. Vonage Holdings Corp., No. 07-178 (FLW), 2007 WL 446658 (D.N.J. Feb. 7, 2007)	4, 6, 7, 8
12
13	Rubin v. Pixelplus Co. Ltd., No. 06-CV-2964 (ERK), 2007 WL 778485 (E.D.N.Y. Mar. 13, 2007)	4
14
15	Shamrock Oil & Gas Corp. v. Sheets, 313 U.S. 100 (1941)	12
16
17	Syngenta Crop Protection, Inc. v. Henson, 537 U.S. 28 (2002)	12
18
19	Toth v. Envivio, No. 12-5636 CW, 2013 WL 5596965 (N.D. Cal. Oct. 11, 2013)	7, 8
20
21	Unschuld v. Tri-S Sec. Corp., No. 06-CV-02931-JEC, 2007 WL 2729011 (N.D. Ga. Sept. 14, 2007)	7
22
23	W. Palm Beach Police Pension Fund v. Cardionet, Inc., No. 10CV711-L(NLS), 2011 WL 1099815, at *2 (S.D. Cal. Mar. 24, 2011)	10
24
25	W. Va. Laborers Tr. Fund v. STEC Inc., No. SACV 11-01171-JVS (MLGx), 2011 WL 6156945 (C.D. Cal. Oct. 7, 2011)	9
26
27	Wunsch v. Am. Realty Capital Props., No. JFM-14-4007, 2015 WL 2183035 (D. Md. Apr. 14, 2015)	5
28

STATUTES

15 U.S.C.

§§ 77a-77mm Securities Act of 1933 (“Securities Act”)	vi, 6, 11
§§ 77(c)	6
§§ 77p(b), 77p(d)(1)(A)	6
§§ 77p(b), 77p(c)	3
§ 77p(f)(2)(A)(i)(II)	4
§ 77v(a) (1933)	1, 3, 4, 10
§ 77z-1(b)(1)	2
§§ 78u-4(b)(1)-(2)	2
§ 78u-4(b)(3)(D)	3

28 U.S.C.

§ 1331.....	12
§ 1441.....	12

Pub. L. No. 105-353, § 2, 112 Stat. 3227 (1998)..... 2

Section 16 of the Securities Act (15 U.S.C. § 77p) 4, 6

RULES

California Rule of Court 2.30(B)(3)..... 9

OTHER AUTHORITIES

143 Cong. Rec. E1007-02 (May 21, 1997).....	3
143 Cong. Rec. S10475-01 (Oct. 7, 1997).....	8
144 Cong. Rec. H6052-03 (July 21, 1998)	2
144 Cong. Rec. S4778-03 (May 13, 1998)	2, 3
H.R. Rep. No. 105-640 (1998).....	2, 3
Mitchell A. Lowenthal & Shiwon Choe, State Courts Lack Jurisdiction to Hear Securities Act Class Actions, But the Frequent Failure to Ask the Right Question Too Often Produces the Wrong Answer U. Pa. J. Bus. L. 739 (2015)	4, 6

1 Defendants respectfully submit this Opposition to Plaintiff's Motion for Remand.

2 SUMMARY OF ARGUMENT

3 Many courts in this district and elsewhere have puzzled over the statutory text that
 4 governs jurisdiction and remand for class actions like this one, brought under the Securities Act
 5 of 1933, 15 U.S.C. §§ 77a-77mm (“Securities Act”). Recently, courts in this district have granted
 6 remand of these class actions. In contrast, other courts, led by the Southern District of New York,
 7 consistently find removal to be proper. There is no controlling authority. The courts that have 8 denied remand have found a solution to the puzzle that is consistent with both the structure and 9 the intent of the Act.

10 The only plausible solution is that state courts no longer have jurisdiction over securities
 11 class actions involving national securities, whether they are brought under state-law or the federal 12 Securities Act. Nonetheless, the courts in this district have mainly held that the Securities
 13 Litigation Uniform Standards Act (“SLUSA”) altered only state court authority to adjudicate
 14 state-law class actions, and not jurisdiction over Securities Act claims. In so holding, those courts
 15 have rehashed the same arguments.

16 What is missing from those decisions, and Plaintiff's motion, is any consideration of the 17 following three points.

18 1. The Express Purpose of SLUSA was to Prevent Circumvention of the Reform Act.

19 In the mid-1990s, Congress addressed the scourge of class action securities lawsuits
 20 “being used to injure the entire U.S. economy” through “nuisance filings,” “vexatious discovery 21 requests,” and “manipulation by class action lawyers” leading to “extortionate settlements.”
 22 Congress did so by enacting the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act (“Reform Act”) to 23 protect against strike suits, and SLUSA to ensure that securities class actions are subject to those 24 federal “Uniform Standards” by preventing “state-court litigation of class actions involving 25 nationally traded securities.” Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith Inc. v. Dabit, 547 U.S. 71, 26 82 (2006) (emphasis added).

27 SLUSA accomplished this purpose with separate provisions addressing federal class
 28 actions and state-law class actions. Together, they establish federal courts as the exclusive venue

1 for “covered class actions,” based on (i) the nature of the security and (ii) use of the class action
 2 device, not plaintiffs’ choice to style those claims as arising under state or federal law. SLUSA
 3 left untouched “individual” actions, which remain under the concurrent jurisdiction of state and
 4 federal courts. As such, Congress also granted federal courts the power to stay discovery in state
 5 courts—in a new provision titled “Circumvention of Discovery Stay”—to ensure that the 6 “preservation of state court jurisdiction” over “individual” actions could not be used to 7 circumvent the Reform Act.

8 2. Granting Remand Has Resurrected Circumvention of the Reform Act.

9 Granting remand shifts the center of gravity of Securities Act class actions from federal to 10 state courts. In doing so, it undermines Congress’s solution to the problem of meritless securities
 11 class action strike suits.

12 California state courts, in particular San Mateo Superior, have recently become the 13 primary arbiters of federal Securities Act class actions in California. Between 2005 and 2014,
 14 plaintiffs filed about two to three Securities Act class actions a year in California state courts. In 15 2015, plaintiffs filed 20 cases against eight issuers in San Mateo Superior alone. In 2016, that 16 pace continues to accelerate. As of May 20, 2016, plaintiffs have filed at least 27 Securities Act
 17 class actions against eight issuers, again in San Mateo. Yet, so far this year, plaintiffs have filed 18 Securities Act class actions against only three issuers in the Northern District. (Declaration of 19 Robert Webb in Support of Sunrun Defendants’ Opposition (“Webb Decl.”) ¶¶ 3-9.)

20 The recent trend in this district undermines SLUSA and the heightened protections of the 21 Reform Act by encouraging the vast majority of Securities Act class actions to be filed in state
 22 court. The San Mateo Superior Court, for example, has held that no automatic stay of discovery
 23 applies pending challenges to the pleadings, has employed no lead plaintiff procedure to identify 24 the most capable representative of the class, and has not required that plaintiffs set forth their
 25 transactions in the security at issue. Not surprisingly, in this case alone, six nearly identical cases
 26 were filed in San Mateo Superior Court, and not one plaintiff identified his or her transactions.

27

28

1 3. The Court “Must Interpret the Act in a Way That Is Consistent” with Its Intent.

2 None of the courts granting remand have addressed the recent Supreme Court authority
3 requiring that, where statutory language is ambiguous, a court “must interpret the Act in a way
4 that is consistent” with its intent. King v. Burwell, 135 S. Ct. 2480, 2496 (2015). The only
5 interpretation of SLUSA that is consistent with its and the Reform Act’s intent is that state courts
6 are now stripped of jurisdiction over Securities Act class actions. Because the interpretation of 7 SLUSA employed to grant remand cannot be reconciled with the text or legislative history of the 8 statute, and its consequences are undermining the purpose of the statute, remand should be 9 denied.¹

10

11

12

13

14

15

16

17

18

19

20

21

22

23

24

25 ¹ By stipulation (Dkt. 14), the parties in this action have agreed to coordinate briefing on this 26 motion to remand with the briefing on substantially identical motions pending in four other
27 removed Securities Act class actions filed against the same defendants. As such, this opposition
28 refers to plaintiff Jeffrey L. Pytel and references page numbers in the Memorandum of Points and Authorities in support of Plaintiff Jeffrey L. Pytel’s Motion to Remand, Pytel v. Sunrun Inc., et al., Case No. 3:16-cv-02566-HSG, Dkt. No. 13.

STATEMENT OF ISSUE TO BE DECIDED

Was this case, which asserts only federal claims under the Securities Act, properly removed to federal court?

BACKGROUND OF THIS ACTION

Plaintiff Jeffrey L. Pytel filed this action on April 13, 2016, asserting violations of the Securities Act. The gravamen of Plaintiff's complaint is that in August 2015, Defendants failed to disclose that, almost five months later, the Nevada Public Utilities Commission would issue an unprecedented decision that would negatively affect Sunrun's business.

This action is one of six nearly identical actions filed against Defendants in the Superior Court of California, County of San Mateo (“San Mateo Court”), and removed to this Court on May 12, 2016. In two of the six suits, the plaintiffs—Pytel and Nunez—are represented by the same law firm, and have filed complaints that are identical except for the details of the plaintiff. (Webb Decl. ¶ 11.)

Sunrun is not based in San Mateo, and no plaintiff alleges he or she lives there. But the San Mateo Court has held that federal constraints on securities class actions do not apply in state court.

STATUTORY BACKGROUND

In 1933, Congress enacted the Securities Act. At that time, Section 22(a) provided federal and state courts with concurrent jurisdiction over Securities Act claims. See 15 U.S.C. § 77v(a) (1933). That version of Section 22(a) also provided that claims under the Securities Act could not be removed from state courts of “competent jurisdiction.” Id.

In 1995, Congress recognized that the securities “class-action device was being used to injure ‘the entire U.S. economy.’” Dabit, 547 U.S. at 81 (quoting H.R. Rep. No. 104-369, at 31 (1995)). Congress enacted the Reform Act to curb abuses by plaintiffs’ lawyers in private securities lawsuits. Id. at 81-82 (citing H.R. Rep. No. 105-640, at 10 (1998)). Chief among those abuses were “nuisance filings, targeting of deep-pocket defendants, vexatious discovery requests, and ‘manipulation by class action lawyers of the clients whom they purportedly represent’ [that] had become rampant.” Id. at 81 (quoting H.R. Rep. No. 104-369, at 31 (1995)).

1 The Reform Act sought to curb those abuses by “provid[ing] uniform standards for class
 2 actions and other suits alleging fraud in the securities market” to discourage frivolous litigation.
 3 Lander v. Hartford Life & Annuity Ins. Co., 251 F.3d 101, 107-08 (2d Cir. 2001). Among its
 4 provisions, the Reform Act provides a process for court appointment of a lead plaintiff and lead
 5 counsel and limits payment of attorneys’ fees and costs. 15 U.S.C. § 77z-1(b)(1). It requires
 6 plaintiffs to meet heightened pleading requirements to survive a motion to dismiss. 15 U.S.C.
 7 §§ 78u-4(b)(1)-(2). It imposes a mandatory stay of discovery until any motion to dismiss has 8 been resolved. 15 U.S.C. § 77z-1(b)(1).

9 The Reform Act did not alter the jurisdictional and anti-removal provisions of the 10 Securities Act. The unintended consequence of this oversight was that “[i]t prompted at least 11 some members of the plaintiffs’ bar to avoid the federal forum altogether.” Dabit, 547 U.S. at 82.
 12 By 1998, Congress found that plaintiffs were circumventing the Reform Act by “resort[ing] to 13 state court to avoid the new, more stringent requirements of federal cases . . . [and] in an apparent
 14 effort to avoid the federal discovery stay or other provisions of the Act.” H.R. Rep. No. 105-640, 15 at 10 (1998). These lawyers were “up to their old tricks by circumventing the intent of the law by 16 bringing frivolous class action law suits in state courts rather than Federal court.” 144 Cong. Rec.
 17 S4778-03 (May 13, 1998) (Statement of Sen. Grams). This trend “represents an undermining of 18 the core reforms that . . . Congress implemented in 1995 because the reform act relied on uniform
 19 application and enforcement of the law to be effective.” 144 Cong. Rec. H6052-03 (July 21, 20 1998) (Statement of Rep. Eshoo).

21 Congress enacted SLUSA in 1998 to “put a stop to the inappropriate use of state courts to 22 circumvent the protections that Congress deemed appropriate in 1995.” Id. (Statement of Rep.
 23 Bliley). The preamble to SLUSA notes the “considerable evidence . . . that a number of securities
 24 class action lawsuits have shifted from Federal to State court” and that “this shift has prevented
 25 [the Reform Act] from fully achieving its objectives” Pub. L. No. 105-353, § 2, 112 Stat.
 26 3227 (1998). SLUSA was intended to “address a specific problem created by a loophole” in the 27 Reform Act by “finally guarantee[ing] a single set of standards for securities litigation for 28 nationally traded securities” and “requir[ing] class action lawsuits that involve nationally traded

1 securities to be heard in Federal court.” 143 Cong. Rec. E1007-02 (May 21, 1997) (Statement of
 2 Rep. Eshoo). The legislative history is replete with references to this explicit purpose, a selection
 3 of which appear in Appendix A.

4 To achieve these objectives, SLUSA (1) eliminated state court jurisdiction over federal
 5 Securities Act covered class actions (15 U.S.C. § 77v(a)) (“Exclusive Jurisdiction Amendment”), 6 and (2) precluded state-law “covered class actions,” so that all covered class actions would
 7 proceed in federal court (“New Removal Provision”). 15 U.S.C. §§ 77p(b), 77p(c). SLUSA
 8 “simply requires that class action lawsuits against nationally traded securities be filed in Federal 9 Court.” 144 Cong. Rec. S4778-03 (May 13, 1998) (Statement of Sen. Grams).

10 Indeed, Congress was so concerned with plaintiffs’ end-run around the Reform Act that it
 11 gave federal courts broad authority to stay discovery proceedings in the individual actions for 12 which state courts retain jurisdiction. SLUSA authorized “Federal judges to quash discovery in 13 State actions . . . to combat abuse of discovery proceedings in individual actions that may be
 14 brought in State court.” H.R. Rep. No. 105-640, at 11 (1998) (emphasis added); see also, 15
 15 U.S.C. § 78u-4(b)(3)(D) (authorizing federal court to stay discovery in state court actions). As 16 the Joint Committee’s Explanatory Statement reflects:

17 Because circumvention of the stay of discovery of the Reform Act
 18 is a key abuse that this legislation is designed to prevent, the 19 Committee intends that [federal] courts use this [stay] provision 20 liberally, so that the preservation of State court jurisdiction of limited individual securities fraud claims does not become a loophole through which the trial bar can engage in discovery not subject to the stay of the Reform Act.

21 H.R. Rep. No. 105-640, at 18 (emphasis added).

22 ARGUMENT

23 I. ONLY FEDERAL COURTS HAVE JURISDICTION TO HEAR THIS 24 PURPORTED CLASS ACTION.

25 A. SLUSA’s Exclusive Jurisdiction Amendment Strips State Courts of 26 Jurisdiction over “Covered Class Actions” Arising Under the Securities Act.

27 SLUSA’s Exclusive Jurisdiction Amendment strips state courts of jurisdiction over 28 “covered class actions” to enforce liabilities created by the Securities Act. The relevant language,

1 with the Exclusive Jurisdiction Amendment in bold, provides:

2 The district courts of the United States . . . shall have jurisdiction of
 3 offenses and violations under this subchapter [i.e., the Securities
 4 Act] and under the rules and regulations promulgated by the 5 Commission in respect thereto, and, concurrent with State and 6 Territorial courts, except as provided in section 77p of this title
 7 [i.e., Section 16 of the Securities Act] with respect to covered
 8 class actions, of all suits in equity and actions at law brought to 9 enforce any liability or duty created by this subchapter.

10 15 U.S.C. § 77v(a).

11 As a result, state courts retain concurrent jurisdiction only over “individual Securities Act 12 claims and certain group claims” that are not covered class actions. Hung v. iDreamsky Tech.
 13 Ltd., No. 15-CV-2514 (JPO), 2016 WL 299034, at *2 (S.D.N.Y. Jan. 25, 2016). Federal courts, 14 on the other hand, have exclusive jurisdiction over “covered class actions,” such as this one, that 15 assert claims under the Securities Act.² See iDreamsky, 2016 WL 299034, at *2; Lapin v.
 16 Facebook, Inc., No. C-12-3195 MMC, 2012 WL 3647409, at *2 (N.D. Cal. Aug. 23, 2012)
 17 (“federal courts alone have jurisdiction to hear covered class actions raising 1933 Act claims”
 18 quoting Knox v. Agria Corp., 613 F. Supp. 2d 419, 425 (S.D.N.Y. 2009))).³ The numerous cases
 19 that deny remand motions do so precisely on this ground. *See, e.g., id.*⁴

20

² This is a “covered class action” as defined in Section 16 of the Securities Act (15 U.S.C. § 77p), 21 because Plaintiff “seek[s] to recover damages on a representative basis on behalf of [himself] and 22 other unnamed parties similarly situated,” and alleges that “questions of law or fact common to 23 those persons or members of the prospective class predominate over any questions affecting only 24 individual persons or members.” 15 U.S.C. § 77p(f)(2)(A)(i)(II); (Compl. ¶¶ 36-40).

25 ³ For an extensive and recent analysis of the law that compels this conclusion and the flaws in 26 various arguments to the contrary, see Mitchell A. Lowenthal & Shiwon Choe, State Courts Lack 27 Jurisdiction to Hear Securities Act Class Actions, But the Frequent Failure to Ask the Right
 28 Question Too Often Produces the Wrong Answer, 17 U. Pa. J. Bus. L. 739 (2015).

29 ⁴ See also In re Fannie Mae 2008 Sec. Litig., Nos. 08 Civ. 7831(PAC), 09 Civ. 1352(PAC),
 30 2009 WL 4067266, at *2 (S.D.N.Y. Nov. 24, 2009) (“federal courts have exclusive jurisdiction
 31 over covered SLUSA class actions alleging claims under the 1933 Act”); Rovner v. Vonage
 32 Holdings Corp., No. 07-178 (FLW), 2007 WL 446658, at *3-4 (D.N.J. Feb. 7, 2007) (“Congress 33 replaced concurrent jurisdiction with exclusive federal jurisdiction”); Pinto v. Vonage Holdings
 34 Corp., No. 07-0062 (FLW), 2007 WL 1381746, at *2 (D.N.J. May 7, 2007) (SLUSA “divest[ed]
 35 state courts of concurrent jurisdiction over covered class actions, regardless of whether they raise 36 state law claims in addition to claims under the Securities Act”); Rubin v. Pixelplus Co. Ltd., 37 No. 06-CV-2964 (ERK), 2007 WL 778485, at *5 (E.D.N.Y. Mar. 13, 2007) (“Indeed, by enacting
 38 SLUSA Congress eliminated concurrent jurisdiction for covered class actions, which made 39 federal court the sole venue for securities fraud class actions . . .”); In re King Pharm., Inc., 40 230 F.R.D. 503, 505 (E.D. Tenn. 2004) (“SLUSA amended § 77v(a) to divest state courts of

41 (Footnote continues on next page.)

B. Plaintiff Can Offer No Other Plausible Interpretation of SLUSA's Exclusive Jurisdiction Amendment.

3 Plaintiff argues that the Exclusive Jurisdiction Amendment has no substantive effect and 4 “was meant to simply acknowledge that” class actions asserting state-law claims “are precluded
5 by [Section 16].” (Mot. at 12 (quoting Rajasekaran v. CytRx Corp., No. CV 14-3406-GHK
6 (PJWx), 2014 WL 4330787, at *5 (C.D. Cal. Aug. 21, 2014).) The courts that have remanded
7 Securities Act claims similarly interpret SLUSA’s Exclusive Jurisdiction Amendment—to the 8 extent they address it at all—as solely “pertain[ing] to covered class actions based on state law.”
9 Elec. Workers Local #357 v. Clovis Oncology, Inc., No. 16-cv-0933-EMC, --- F. Supp. 3d ----,
10 2016 WL 2592947, at *5 (N.D. Cal. May 5, 2016) (“Clovis”).

11 According to Plaintiff and the cases upon which he relies, it is significant that when the 12 “except as provided” clause in the Exclusive Jurisdiction Amendment mentions “covered class 13 actions,” it refers to Section 16 generally, and not specifically to subsection (f) where the 14 definition of “covered class action” is found. (Mot. at 12 (quoting CytRx, 2014 WL 4330787, at 15 *5).) They argue that Congress’s use of a broad cross-reference was meant to imply something 16 narrower than all “covered class actions” as that term is defined in Section 16. See, e.g., Haw.
17 Structural Ironworkers Pension Tr. Fund v. Calpine Corp., No. 03CV0714-BTM(JFS), 2003 WL
18 23509312, at *3 (S.D. Cal. Aug. 27, 2003); Niitsoo v. Alpha Nat. Res., Inc., 902 F. Supp. 2d 797, concurrent jurisdiction over covered class actions and to provide for removal of these cases to federal court"); Wunsch v. Am. Realty Capital Props., No. JFM-14-4007, 2015 WL 2183035 (D. Md. Apr. 14, 2015); Brady v. Kosmos Energy Ltd., Nos. 3:12-cv-0373-B, 3:12-cv-0781-B, 2012 WL 6204247 (N.D. Tex. July 10, 2012); Northumberland Cty. Ret. Sys. v. GMX Res., Inc., 810 F. Supp. 2d 1282 (W.D. Okla. 2011); Purowitz v. DreamWorks Animation SKG, Inc., No. CV 05-6090 MRP (VBKx), 2005 WL 6794770 (C.D. Cal. Nov. 15, 2005); Lowinger v. Johnston, No. 3:05CV316-H, 2005 WL 2592229 (W.D.N.C. Oct. 13, 2005); Kulinski v. Am. Elec. Power Co., No. Civ. A.C-2-03-412, 2003 WL 24032299 (S.D. Ohio Sept. 19, 2003) (report and recommendation), adopted, slip op. (S.D. Ohio Jan. 7, 2004), ECF No. 31; Alkow v. TXU Corp., Nos. 3:02-CV-2738-K, 3:02-CV-2379-K, 2003 WL 21056750 (N.D. Tex. May 8, 2003); Brody v. Homestore, Inc., 240 F. Supp. 2d 1122, 1124 (C.D. Cal. 2003).
19 805 (S.D. W. Va. 2012).

(Footnote continued from previous page.)

1 Plaintiff's strained reading of the "except as provided" clause finds no support in the
 2 statutory text. The only subsection of Section 16 that could have any bearing on Section 22(a)'s
 3 exception to concurrent jurisdiction is the definition of "covered class actions" in Section 16(f).
 4 That definition expressly applies "for purposes of this section"—i.e., the entirety of Section
 5 16. Commentators have posited that the general reference to Section 16 was simply one of 6 convenience because in the course of drafting SLUSA, the specific lettering of subsection (f)
 7 changed repeatedly. See Mitchell A. Lowenthal & Shiwon Choe, State Courts Lack Jurisdiction
 8 to Hear Securities Act Class Actions, But the Frequent Failure to Ask the Right Question Too
 9 Often Produces the Wrong Answer, 17 U. Pa. J. Bus. L. 739, 769 & n. 137 (2015). Thus, the only
 10 sensible reading of Section 22(a)'s reference to covered class actions "as provided in section 11 [16]" is to subsection (f)(2)'s definition.⁵

12 Plaintiff's argument that the Exclusive Jurisdiction Amendment's "except as provided in 13 [Section 16]" clause only pertains to covered class actions based on state law makes no sense.⁶
 14 As Plaintiff's own cases explain, Section 22(a) "applies only to claims arising under the 15 Securities Act of 1933." Luther v. Countrywide Home Loans Servicing LP, 533 F.3d 1031, 1034
 16 (9th Cir. 2008). The Exclusive Jurisdiction Amendment's "except as provided" carve-out must 17 have eliminated state courts' concurrent jurisdiction over a subset of Securities Act claims. "But 18 state claims, of course, are not a subset of federal claims, excisable through an exception."
 19 iDreamsky, 2016 WL 299034, at *2; see also Rovner, 2007 WL 446658, at *4 (the "except as"
 20 clause "must apply to some subset of cases that actually arise under the Securities Act").

21 Moreover, if Congress had intended to limit removal jurisdiction only to claims based on 22 state law, the Exclusive Jurisdiction Amendment would have been unnecessary. Plaintiff's
 23

24 ⁵ When Congress meant to reach only covered class actions arising under state law, the statute 25 expressly qualifies that it is referring to covered class actions "based upon the statutory or 26 common law of any State or subdivision thereof" (15 U.S.C. §§ 77p(b), 77p(d)(1)(A)) or 27 references one of those provisions. See 15 U.S.C. §§ 77(c) (referring to §77(b)), 77v(a) (referring 28 to § 77(c) with respect to the removal bar).

⁶ The Section 16 subsections that Plaintiff points to are (b) and (c), which deal with the preclusion and removal of state law securities class action claims.

1 argument therefore renders the Exclusive Jurisdiction Amendment—and not just the phrasing, but
 2 the underlying decision to amend the affected provision at all—superfluous. See, e.g.,
 3 Northumberland, 810 F. Supp. 2d at 1287; Rovner, 2007 WL 446658, at *4; Brody, 240 F. Supp.
 4 2d at 1124. None of the cases cited by Plaintiff cogently explains otherwise. See, e.g.,
 5 Desmarais v. Johnson, Nos. C 13-03666 WHA, C 13-03668 WHA, 2013 WL 5735154, at *10-11
 6 (N.D. Cal. Oct. 22, 2013); CytRx, 2014 WL 4330787, at *5.

7 Interpreting SLUSA to have granted exclusive federal jurisdiction over covered class
 8 actions asserting claims under the Securities Act gives meaning to every part of SLUSA and the 9 Securities Act, and conforms to its purpose.

10 C. Courts Cannot Interpret Federal Statutes to Negate Their Own Stated
 11 Purposes, as Remand Would Do Here.

12 Plaintiff’s sole focus on state-law claims also ignores the purposes of SLUSA. As the 13 Supreme Court recently held, courts “cannot interpret federal statutes to negate their own stated
 14 purposes.” King, 135 S. Ct. at 2493.

15 Plaintiff and his authorities do not address this holding. Indeed some of the cases granting 16 remand recognize that granting remand “would lead to an absurd result that would undermine the 17 principal purposes of SLUSA,” but nevertheless apply a presumption against removal to hold that 18 remand is appropriate if the statute is ambiguous.⁷ Unschuld v. Tri-S Sec. Corp., No. 06-CV-
 19 02931-JEC, 2007 WL 2729011, at *8 (N.D. Ga. Sept. 14, 2007). That result is prohibited unless 20 the statutory text compels it. See King, 135 S. Ct. at 2494, 2496 (interpreting a statute that 21 suffered from “inartful drafting,” and finding that “[i]f at all possible, we must interpret the Act in 22 a way that is consistent with” Congress’s intent “to improve health insurance markets, not to 23 destroy them”).

24
 25 ⁷ See, e.g., Toth v. Envivio, No. 12-5636 CW, 2013 WL 5596965, at *2 (N.D. Cal. Oct. 11, 2013)
 26 (considering language that is “murky at best,” “doubts must be resolved against removability”);
 27 Cervantes v. Dickerson, No. 15-cv-3825-PJH, 2015 WL 6163573, at *7 (N.D. Cal. Oct. 21, 2015)
 28 (“[W]here there are doubts as to whether federal jurisdiction exists, those doubts must be resolved against removability.”); Reyes v. Zynga, No. 12-05065 JSW, 2013 WL 5529754, at *3 (N.D. Cal.
 Jan. 23, 2013) (same); Buelow v. Alibaba Grp. Holding Ltd., No. 15-cv-0519-BLF, 2016 WL
 234159, at *4 (N.D. Cal. Jan. 20, 2016) (same).

1 Where statutory language is ambiguous, a court “must turn to the broader structure of the 2 Act to determine the meaning of [the provision].” King, 135 S. Ct. at 2493 (citation omitted).
 3 Courts in this district have held that the jurisdictional provisions of SLUSA are another example
 4 of inartful drafting. See, e.g., Cervantes, 2015 WL 6163573, at *4 (“the statutory provisions at
 5 issue here . . . cannot be described as a model of clarity”); Toth, 2013 WL 5596965, at *2
 6 (recognizing that the relevant language is “murky at best” and “careless legislative 7 draftsmanship”).

8 As described in detail in the Statutory Background section, Congress enacted SLUSA to 9 ensure that securities class actions are subject to the federal “Uniform Standards” by preventing 10 “state-court litigation of class actions involving nationally traded securities.” Dabit, 547 U.S. at 11 82 (emphases added). As the legislative history demonstrates, Congress intended that SLUSA
 12 would achieve uniform application of the Reform Act’s protections by making federal courts the 13 exclusive venue for covered class actions. Moreover, because SLUSA “does not affect individual
 14 actions in State courts” (143 Cong. Rec. S10475-01 (Oct. 7, 1997) (Statement of Sen. Dodd)), it
 15 gives the federal courts the power to stay discovery in those actions.

16 Plaintiff and his authorities cite to statements in the legislative history concerning 17 Congress’s intent to prevent state-law covered class actions from circumventing the Reform Act.
 18 (Mot. at 14-15.) Defendants agree that Congress also intended SLUSA to preclude covered class
 19 actions alleging state-law claims. Defendants dispute, however, that this is the only issue SLUSA
 20 addressed. Both the federal and state amendments were necessary to ensure that uniform
 21 application of federal standards is triggered by the nature of the security and use of the class
 22 action device. Nothing cited by Plaintiff purports to set forth an exclusive purpose for SLUSA, or 23 to contradict the express objective of preventing an end-run around the Reform Act.

24 Plaintiff’s and the remanding courts’ reading of the Exclusive Jurisdiction Amendment
 25 and New Removal Provision, on the other hand, is “irreconcilable” with the purposes of SLUSA.
 26 Rovner, 2007 WL 446658, at *5. It means that Congress enacted a system whereby state-law
 27 securities class actions can be removed to federal court, but class actions that allege only
 28 Securities Act claims are consigned to state court. It also means that federal Securities Act class

1 actions are not guaranteed the Reform Act's protections. In state court there is a risk that there
 2 will be no automatic stay of discovery pending challenges to the pleadings, no lead plaintiff
 3 procedure to identify the most capable representative of the class, and no requirement that 4 plaintiffs even set forth their transactions in the security at issue. See In re Pac. Biosciences of
 5 Cal. Inc., No. CIV 509210, 2012 WL 1932469 (San Mateo Superior Ct. May 25, 2012).⁸

6 Indeed, Plaintiff's and the remanding courts' interpretation turns SLUSA on its head—
 7 rather than providing for uniform standards, they would have identical class actions pending in 8 federal court and in state court and be subject to different pleading standards and discovery
 9 burdens, thus allowing plaintiffs to once again evade the protections of the Reform Act. As Knox
 10 explained,

11 SLUSA was intended to curtail the proliferation in state courts of 12 securities fraud class actions (federal or state) beyond the reach of 13 the [Reform Act]'s heightened pleading standards. Instead, the 14 constricted approach threatens to spawn federal securities fraud
 15 class actions in state courts where they could proceed under the 16 [Reform Act's] radar. That bizarre result would shift the center of 17 gravity of federal securities fraud class actions under the 1933
 18 [Securities] Act from federal to state courts.

19 613 F. Supp. 2d at 423; see also Reyes, 2013 WL 5529754, at *3 ("[G]iven the intent of SLUSA 20 it just makes no sense to prohibit the removal of federal securities class actions to federal court.").
 21 "It is implausible that Congress meant the Act to operate in this manner." King, 135 S. Ct. at 22 2494.

23 A number of the cases cited by Plaintiff candidly recognize that the outcome that they 24 reach is illogical. For example, in W. Va. Laborers Tr. Fund v. STEC Inc., the court remanded 25 but acknowledged that its "interpretation may produce strange results whereby class actions based 26 on state law are removable, while class actions based on the Securities Act are not removable."
 27 No. SACV 11-01171-JVS (MLGx), 2011 WL 6156945, at *3 (C.D. Cal. Oct. 7, 2011). Similarly,
 28 in W. Palm Beach Police Pension Fund v. Cardionet, Inc., the court noted that its result was

29 ⁸ Per California Rule of Court 2.30(B)(3), securities claims or investment losses involving many 30 parties are provisionally designated as complex. The San Mateo Superior Court has one judge
 31 assigned as the Court's Complex Civil Litigation Judge. See
 32 http://www.sanmateocourt.org/court_divisions/civil/complex_civil_litigation.php.

1 “counterintuitive.” No. 10CV711-L(NLS), 2011 WL 1099815, at *2 (S.D. Cal. Mar. 24, 2011).

2 Thus, under Supreme Court authority, the ambiguity that courts in this district have 3 asserted in granting remand compels the opposite result so as to effectuate the purposes of 4 SLUSA.

5 II. BECAUSE STATE COURTS LACK JURISDICTION OVER COVERED CLASS
 6 ACTIONS ASSERTING SECURITIES ACT CLAIMS, THE REMOVAL BAR
 DOES NOT APPLY.

7 A. The Removal Bar Does Not Apply to Securities Act Covered Class Actions.

8 The courts that have granted remand focus primarily on the Removal Bar in the last
 9 sentence of Section 22(a) (see Mot. at 5-10), but the Removal Bar is inapplicable. It states that 10 “no case arising under this subchapter and brought in any State court of competent jurisdiction
 11 shall be removed to any court of the United States.” 15 U.S.C. § 77v(a) (emphasis added).

12 As described in Section I, supra, state courts are no longer “court[s] of competent 13 jurisdiction” for federal Securities Act “covered class actions” because SLUSA’s amendment to 14 the first sentence of Section 22(a) divested them of concurrent jurisdiction. See Knox,
 15 613 F. Supp. 2d at 423 (citation omitted).

16 The Removal Bar, therefore, does not address the removability of federal Securities Act
 17 class actions. Rather, it addresses the subset of Securities Act claims over which state courts
 18 retain concurrent jurisdiction: “individual Securities Act claims and certain group claims” that are 19 not “covered class actions.” iDreamsky, 2016 WL 299034, at *2; Cal. Pub. Emps.’ Ret. Sys. v. WorldCom, Inc., 368 F.3d 86, 98 (2d Cir. 2004) (“SLUSA did not in any way alter Section 21 22(a)’s bar on the removal of individual Securities Act claims”).

22 B. Plaintiff’s Reliance on Kircher and Luther Is Misplaced.

23 Plaintiff relies on the Supreme Court’s decision in Kircher and the Ninth Circuit’s
 24 decision in Luther in arguing that remand is required under the Removal Bar. (Mot. at 8, 12-13.)
 25 Plaintiff, however, mischaracterizes the analysis and holding of both cases. Neither case
 26 addressed covered class actions arising under the Securities Act—the only type of claims at issue
 27 here—or the Exclusive Jurisdiction Amendment, which governs such claims. In denying remand
 28 of similar Securities Act claims, the Lapin court considered both Kircher and Luther and

1 concluded that “[n]either the Supreme Court nor any Circuit Court of Appeals has determined
 2 whether, under SLUSA, a defendant may remove from state court a class action complaint
 3 alleging claims brought under the 1933 Act.” Lapin, 2012 WL 3647409, at *2.

4 Securities Act claims were not at issue in Kircher. As the Supreme Court said: “The 5 eight complaints asserted only state-law claims, such as negligence and breach of fiduciary duty.”
 6 Kircher v. Putnam Funds Tr., 547 U.S. 633, 637 (2006) (emphasis added). Thus, Kircher did not 7 address whether federal courts have exclusive jurisdiction over those “covered class actions” that
 8 assert claims under the Securities Act. Nor did Kircher address whether removal of such actions
 9 is proper, let alone whether remand of such actions is required. Indeed, Kircher’s only holding 10 was that an order remanding state-law claims removed under Section 16(c) is not appealable. Id.
 11 at 635-36; see also Lapin, 2012 WL 3647409, at *2 n.4 (explaining that Kircher “addressed the
 12 provisions of SLUSA allowing removal of class actions alleging claims brought under state 13 law”).

14 Luther also did not address the removal and remand issues at stake here. Rather, Luther
 15 involved the Class Action Fairness Act (“CAFA”) and the limited issue of whether CAFA’s 16 “general grant of the right of removal of high-dollar class actions . . . trump[s] § 22(a)’s specific 17 bar to removal of cases arising under the Securities Act of 1933.” 533 F.3d at 1034. Thus, the 18 Ninth Circuit’s only holding was that CAFA does not trump Section 22(a)’s anti-removal
 19 provision. Id.; see also, Lapin, 2012 WL 3647409, at *2 n.4 (explaining that in Luther, “the 20 Ninth Circuit did not consider SLUSA, because the parties thereto agreed that SLUSA was not 21 applicable in light of the type of security at issue therein”). When defendants in Luther later
 22 sought to raise the SLUSA Exclusive Jurisdiction Amendment after remand, the District Court
 23 recognized that the issue had not previously been addressed by the Ninth Circuit because 24 defendants “did not raise a SLUSA issue (removal or jurisdictional) [in the remand proceedings];
 25 nor did they raise it before the Ninth Circuit.” Luther v. Countrywide Fin. Corp., No. CV-09-
 26 06162-MRP (JWJx), 2009 WL 3271368, at *1 (C.D. Cal. Oct. 9, 2009). CAFA, the statute that 27 Luther did address, is not at issue here.

28

1 III. COURTS THAT REMAND BASED ON UNCERTAINTY HAVE IT EXACTLY
2 BACKWARDS; ANY UNCERTAINTY PRECLUDES REMAND.

3 This action is within the original jurisdiction of this Court because Plaintiff asserts claims
4 arising under federal law. 28 U.S.C. § 1331; (Compl. ¶ 2). Because this Court has original
5 jurisdiction over this action under 28 U.S.C. § 1331, it is removable under 28 U.S.C. § 1441.

6 Plaintiff incorrectly asserts that Defendants bear the burden to overcome a strong
7 presumption against removal and that any doubt must be resolved in his favor. (Mot. at 4-5.)
8 Where, as here, federal courts have original jurisdiction, “the burden is on a plaintiff to find an 9 express exception” to removal. Breuer v. Jim’s Concrete of Brevard, Inc., 538 U.S. 691, 698
10 (2003) (affirming denial of remand in a case removed under § 1441).

11 Courts in this District have improperly employed a presumption against removal to 12 remand Securities Act claims. See, e.g., Clovis, 2016 WL 2592947, at *2-3 (holding that 13 defendant “bears the burden of proving that this action belongs in federal court” and that 14 “Plaintiff does not have the burden of establishing an ‘express exception’ to removal”).

15 But shifting the burden to defendants directly contradicts controlling authority. In Breuer,
16 the Supreme Court rejected application of this “strict construction of removal legislation,”
17 holding that it does not apply when federal courts have original jurisdiction. 538 U.S. at 697.
18 “[W]hatever apparent force [Plaintiff’s] argument might have claimed when Shamrock was 19 handed down,” it no longer applies since an amendment to Section 1441 requires “any exception
20 to the general removability rule to be express.”⁹ Id. (citations omitted). “Since 1948, therefore,
21 there has been no question that whenever the subject matter of an action qualifies it for removal,
22 the burden is on a plaintiff to find an express exception.” Id. at 698.¹⁰ See also Madden v. Cowen

23 ⁹ The presumption against removal urged by Plaintiff is derived from Shamrock Oil & Gas
24 Corp. v. Sheets, 313 U.S. 100, 108-09 (1941). Plaintiff relies on Libhart v. Santa Monica Dairy
25 Co., 592 F.2d 1062, 1064 (9th Cir. 1979); Luther v. Countrywide Home Loans Servicing LP,
26 533 F.3d 1031, 1034 (9th Cir. 2008); and Syngenta Crop Protection, Inc. v. Henson, 537 U.S. 28,
27 32 (2002); all of which cite to Shamrock Oil. Plaintiff also relies on Gaus v. Miles, Inc., 980 F.2d
28 564, 566 (9th Cir. 1992), which cites Libhart, and on Moore-Thomas v. Alaska Airlines, Inc.,
29 553 F.3d 1241, 1244 (9th Cir. 2009), which in turn cites Gaus. (See Mot. at 4-5.)

30 ¹⁰ The Clovis court attempts to distinguish Breuer on the grounds that there was no exemption on 31 the face of the statute at issue in Breuer. See 2016 WL 2592947, at *10 n.2. That begs the
32 (Footnote continues on next page.)

1 & Co., 576 F.3d 957, 974 (9th Cir. 2009) (“defendant bears the burden of proving any
 2 prerequisites to federal jurisdiction, while the plaintiff bears the burden of proving the existence
 3 of any ‘exceptions’ to the exercise of jurisdiction that ‘otherwise exists’”) (citing Serrano v. 180
 4 Connect, Inc., 478 F.3d 1018, 1020 & n.3 (9th Cir. 2007)).

5 The controlling cases relied upon by Plaintiff are not contrary. Plaintiff quotes Luther for 6 the strict construction against removal and the proposition that any doubt should be resolved in 7 his favor. (Mot. at 4.) But he omits the next two sentences, which hold that a plaintiff “has the 8 burden to prove that an express exception to removal exists” and which then address Section
 9 22(a) as such an exception (with respect to non-covered class actions). 533 F.3d at 1034 (citing 10 Breuer, 538 U.S. at 698). Plaintiff also relies heavily on Gaus, which explains that the 11 presumption is jurisdictional. (Mot. at 4-5.) Gaus involved claims brought under state law, for 12 which the only purported basis of federal jurisdiction was diversity, yet the amount-in-
 13 controversy prerequisite was uncertain. Gaus, 980 F.2d at 567 (explaining that “defendant bears 14 the burden of actually proving facts to support jurisdiction”). Plaintiff cites no authority for 15 applying the presumption against removal to federal claims removed under Section 1441, for 16 which the federal court has a clear basis of original jurisdiction.

17 Plaintiff, therefore—not Defendants—bears the burden on this motion to demonstrate an 18 exception to federal jurisdiction.

19 IV. THE LACK OF CONTROLLING AUTHORITY WEIGHS IN FAVOR OF 20 DENYING REMAND.

21 Courts in this district that have granted remand of Securities Act class actions have 22 lamented—and in some cases, relied on—the lack of appellate authority on this issue. See, e.g., 23 Cervantes, 2015 WL 6163573, at *7 (resolving doubts in favor of remand “[g]iven the lack of 24 clear authority from the Supreme Court or the Ninth Circuit (or any Circuit) on this issue”);

25 (Footnote continued from previous page.)

26 question. There is an exception to removal in Section 22(a) for individual claims, but the 27 question before the Court is whether Section 22(a) creates an exception to removal for covered
 28 class actions. Plaintiff bears the burden to demonstrate that the exception applies here, notwithstanding the amendment of Section 22(a), and that burden cannot be satisfied by assuming that the exception exists.

1 Desmarais, 2013 WL 5735154, at *5 (“The remand issue is a recurring question that deserves to
2 be answered by the appellate courts.”); Clovis, 2016 WL 2592947, at *6 n.4 (“This precise issue
3 has not been squarely addressed by appellate courts in this country due to the appellate review
4 restrictions on remand orders within the removal statute.”).

5 Defendants dispute that an order granting remand is necessarily unreviewable. But there
6 is certainly no bar to the appeal of an order denying a motion to remand. See Merrill Lynch,
7 Pierce, Fenner & Smith Inc. v. Manning, 136 S. Ct. 1562 (2016) (affirming circuit court's 8 reversal of order denying motion to remand). Accordingly, Defendants respectfully submit that 9 the uncertain state of the law weighs in favor of denying Plaintiff's motion to remand.

CONCLUSION

11 For the foregoing reasons, the Court should deny Plaintiff's motion to remand and allow 12 this action to remain in federal court where it belongs.¹¹

|| Dated: June 2, 2016

ANNA ERICKSON WHITE
ROBERT L. CORTEZ WEBB
SU-HAN WANG
MORRISON & FOERSTER LLP

By: /s/ Anna Erickson White
ANNA ERICKSON WHITE

*Attorneys for Defendants
Sunrun Inc., Lynn Jurich, Bob Komin, Edward
Fenster, Jameson McJunkin, Gerald Risk,
Steve Vassallo, Richard Wong, Beau Peelle,
Eren Omer Atesmen, Reginald Norris, William
Elmore, Foundation Capital VI, L.P., and Foundation Capital Management Co. VI, LLC*

¹¹ For all the same reasons, Plaintiff's request that the Court permit an application for attorney's fees should be denied as well.

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10
11
12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19
20
21
22
23
24
25
26
27
28

Appendix A

SLUSA Legislative History

“[T]he bill generally provides that class actions can be brought only in Federal Court where they will be governed by federal law.”

144 Cong. Rec. S4778-03 (May 13, 1998) (Statement of Sen. D’Amato) (quoting letter from Arthur Levitt, SEC Chairman, et al. to Senator D’Amato, Chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, et al. dated March 24, 1998).

“[T]he legislation would provide for the shifting of securities lawsuits filed in state court into the more appropriate federal court.”

144 Cong. Rec. S4778-03 (May 13, 1998) (Statement of Sen. Feinstein).

“[SLUSA] would permit a defendant, whether a company or individual, who is sued in state court to proceed into federal court. This legislation would in effect require that every large securities class action be brought into federal court.”

144 Cong. Rec. S4778-03 (May 13, 1998) (Statement of Sen. Feinstein).

“[T]he efforts to effectively nullify [the Reform Act] by bringing such suits in state courts must be halted, which this legislation does by requiring all class action suits of this type be brought in federal courts. . . . Moving all class action securities lawsuits to federal court should lead to the creation of a more favorable, stable climate for businesses while preserving important remedial means for shareholders with legitimate complaints about inappropriate corporate activities.”

144 Cong. Rec. S4778-03 (May 13, 1998) (Statement of Sen. Kerry).

“The thrust of this legislation is to say that the traditional class action lawsuit should no longer be available at the State court level.”

144 Cong. Rec. S4778-03 (May 13, 1998) (Statement of Sen. Bryan).

“If the alleged violation is national and it is filed on behalf of a class, then the case should be brought in Federal court. . . . This legislation will put a stop to the inappropriate use of state courts to circumvent the protections that Congress deemed appropriate in 1995. [It] will not prevent individual claims from being filed in state courts . . .”

144 Cong. Rec. H6052-03 (July 21, 1998) (Statement of Rep. Bliley).

“[T]his legislation will make federal courts the exclusive venue for large-scale securities fraud lawsuits involving [covered] securities . . .”

144 Cong. Rec. H6052-03 (July 21, 1998) (Statement of Rep. Cox).

“The migration to State courts is not a minor problem. It represents an undermining of the core reforms that this Congress implemented in 1995 because the reform act relied on uniform application and enforcement of the law in order to be effective.”

144 Cong. Rec. H6052-03 (July 21, 1998) (Statement of Rep. Eshoo).

“The premise of this legislation is simple: lawsuits alleging violations that involve securities that are offered nationally belong to Federal court.”

144 Cong. Rec. H11019-01 (Oct. 13, 1998) (Statement of Rep. Bliley).

“[SLUSA] makes Federal court the exclusive venue for most securities class action lawsuits. The purpose of this title is to prevent plaintiffs from seeking to evade the protections that Federal law provides against abusive litigation by filing suit in State, rather than in Federal, court.”

H.R. Conf. Rep. No. 105-803, at 13 (1998) (Joint Explanatory Statement of the Committee of Conference).

“[T]he uniform standards provided by this legislation state that class actions generally can be brought only in Federal court, where they will be governed by Federal law”

Presidential Statement on Signing the Securities Litigation Uniform Standards Act of 1998, 1998 U.S.C.C.A.N. 767.

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I hereby certify that on June 2, 2016, I electronically transmitted the attached document to the Clerk's Office using the CM/ECF System for filing and transmittal of a Notice of Electronic Filing to all CM/ECF registrants.

/s/Kenneth L.P. MacCardle

Kenneth L.P. MacCardle